Whole Foods opens to delight, dismay

For those people excited about the new Jamaica Plain Whole Foods, its earlier than expected opening on Halloween was a treat.

The company announced last week that the store would open tomorrow, but it "fast-tracked" product deliveries ahead of the weekend storm and were ready to open yesterday, said spokeswoman Heather McCready.

Most of the nearly 70 parking spaces at the store were filled at noon yesterday as a steady stream of shoppers came and went.

Siobhan Claflin said a friend called about the early opening and walked to the store to check it out.

"It's my neighborhood grocery store," she said. "It looks great."

The advanced opening happened on the same day members from the group Whose Food, Whose Community held an opposition rally outside the Centre Street store. Members dressed as "corporate vampires" and asked passers-by to sign a petition urging the company to agree to a "Community Benefit Agreement."

'Zombies' rush the Federal building

- The Fed goes into lockdown as protesters stage 'die-in' at entrances
- Student zombies march in solidarity with Occupy throughout city

Workers inside Boston's Federal Reserve Bank watched from their windows as a small army of zombies lurched toward the entrance of the building in protest, waving flags, their faces dripping with fake blood.

The student-run Halloween rally marked what protesters called "The Death of the American Dream," in solidarity with the Occupy Boston movement.

The zombie infestation led to the bank going into lockdown mode while occupiers staged a "die-in" at two separate doorways.

Officials inside the bank scrambled to close the entrances to keep protesters out as students flopped to the ground, playing dead and moaning.

Occupy Boston protester Casey Herz read a "vigil" as people lay lifeless along the walkway leading to the building.

"This is for the lost life of democracy and the death of long lost minds, bodies and souls," he said. "We are victims of a system that continues to work against the 99 percent."

During the march, occupiers also played dead at Northeastern University President Joseph Aoun's house on Beacon Hill as well as the State House steps, and staged a sit-in at Downtown Crossing.

Prior to the march, more than 40 Northeastern University students held a mock funeral on campus, reading an obituary dedicated to the death of the American dream, said student Frank Marino.

Dryer lint to blame for blaze

BOSTON. Dozens of people were displaced and one woman suffered smoke inhalation Sunday because of a clothes dryer that sparked a five-alarm fire in Mission Hill.

"A buildup of lint" in a dryer on the second floor of 37 Calumet St. led to the blaze, fire officals said.

Fire officials estimated the damage at $1.2 million. METRO

Keep it inside

BOSTON. A 20-year-old Fenway resident was arrested Sunday for throwing items from his third-story window on Hemenway Street.

When police arrived 6 a.m. they saw broken dishes, pots, a window fan, seat cushions and a beer ball on the ground.

Police said they then saw Matt Mahfouz appear in the apartment window with a microwave. METRO

'Tis the season for some Metro Magic

The holiday season is upon us and Metro launches our inaugural toy drive today Buy toys through Toys R Us and they are shipped directly to Metro's Congress Street office US Marines will come to our office in December to pick up and distribute the gifts to children

Metro is thrilled to announce the launch of our 2011 Metro Magic giving campaign and, as the gift-giving season begins, we are asking our daily readers to give back to needy children in Boston.

We first launched Metro Magic last year at our sister paper in New York City and were so overwhelmed by the generosity of Metro readers that, this year, we decided to bring the toy drive to Boston and Philadelphia as well.

We are again partnering with Toys for Tots, the nonprofit run by the U.S. Marines, who will come to our Boston office to pick up the toys and distribute them to hundreds of different charities.

In addition to Toys for Tots, Metro Boston is also partnering with The Home for Little Wanderers, which delivers services to thousands of children and families each year through a system of residential, community-based and prevention programs, direct care services and advocacy.

"We are excited to be partnering with the Metro this year for The Home for Little Wanderers' Big Wishes Gift Drive," said Jason Etheridge, The Home's senior corporate relations manager. "Thanks to the generosity of Metro readers, we'll be able to make the holiday wishes of thousands of children who are living in at-risk circumstances come true."

Starting today, and running through December, keep an eye out for the Metro Magic logo daily.

This season, we hope you will remember that one gift can make a big difference. METRO

▶ Marines will pick up toys at Metro's office.

EMILY ANNE EPSTEIN/METRO

▶ One of the hundreds of children we were able to help last year unwraps a gift donated by a Metro reader.

What is Toys for Tots?

BOSTON. Toys for Tots started in 1947, when a group of U.S. Marine reservists got together and cleaned up small toys and gave them away to needy families. Now it's one of the biggest nonprofits in the nation. Toys for Tots works by giving away the toys they collect to other nonprofits.

Through the generosity, assistance and goodwill of Boston's citizens, the Greater Boston Toys for Tots program has been one of the most successful in the country and has gained national notoriety in past years. METRO

What to give?

BOSTON. Metro is collecting new, unwrapped gifts, not clothes. Things like action figures, dolls, board games, and sports toys like a football are always good. And don't forget about older children, ages 11 and up. An older child would love to receive an MP3 player, a make-up kit or a poster from their favorite "Twilight" movie this year. And you don't have to give much. Spending $10 or $20 on a toy or two for a needy child can make a big difference. METRO

How to take part

1: Log on to www.metro.us and look for this Metro Magic logo:

▶ Toys took over our NYC office last year!

2: One click on the logo will take you to a "Wish List" we have set up via a secure link on ToysRUs.com. Once there, you can see all the toys we've already requested for kids and more are being added daily. Simply select the toys you want and purchase them. That's it!

▶ Selecting only the toys on our wish list ensures that all the gifts will be shipped to our offices and then picked up by the Marines.

▶ If you donate, e-mail us at charity@metro.us letting us know what you gave and we'll shout out a "thank-you" in the paper! METRO

Expert says MJ gave self a fatal dose

Michael Jackson likely injected himself with a fatal dose of the anesthetic propofol after popping an extra eight sedatives without his doctor's knowledge, a Los Angeles court has heard.

Dr. Paul White, the last defense witness in the involuntary manslaughter trial of the singer's physician, Dr. Conrad Murray, said that self-administration best explains sedative levels found in Jackson's system after his death.

White said that based on the amount of propofol found in Jackson's urine, he believed the pop star gave himself a further injection of propofol about one hour after Murray has admitted injecting the 50-year-old singer with a relatively small 25 milligram dose.

"With the administration of the additional 25 milligrams that we're speculating was self-injected by Mr. Jackson, the level ... would be almost identical to the level found in the urine at autopsy," White told jurors. REUTERS

White also said Jackson could have swallowed eight lorazepam tablets, bringing the amount of the sedative found in his blood to that seen at autopsy.

Footage released of Russian spy scandal

◗ Surveillance shows agents meeting, brush pass and leaving items at drop site ◗ Watch them yourself

If Hollywood needs help turning the 2010 U.S.-Russian spy scandal into a movie, the FBI yesterday released surveillance videos that could guide the script: femme fatale Anna Chapman and other agents meeting, doing a brush pass and leaving items at a drop site.

Ten Russian spies spent years in the United States trying to blend into American society in an apparent bid to get close to power brokers and learn secrets. But the FBI said no classified information was stolen.

The FBI released 10 videos, including some of Chapman wandering through a New York department store where she was apparently secretly transmitting information to a nearby Russian government official over a wireless network.

Other videos showed the spies meeting around New York City, doing a brush pass in a train station and picking up and leaving items at drop sites in Virginia and New York.

The bureau released one video of an FBI agent posing as a Russian consulate employee meeting with Chapman at a downtown New York coffee shop in late June 2010, a meeting that may have spooked her into thinking authorities had penetrated the ring.

An hour later she bought a new cell phone under a fake name and the next day she failed to show up at another meeting with the undercover agent. That led U.S. authorities to move in and arrest all the Russian spies. REUTERS

Kim Kardashian files for divorce

A whole 72 days after walking down the aisle with NBA player Kris Humphries, Kim Kardashian filed for divorce yesterday morning.

The unhappy couple is not seeking an annulment, and Kim checked off the usual "irreconcilable differences," asking the court to deny spousal support to Humphries.

It's the second divorce for Kim — who split with music producer Damon Thomas in 2004 after four years of marriage — and the first for Humphries, who was blindsided by the filing, according to TMZ, and is "bummed."

As it's all but impossible to remember, they very loosely tied the knot on Aug. 20 at a ceremony that was estimated to cost around $10 million. (You somehow missed that? A re-run of the two-part, four-hour "Kim's Fairytale Wedding: A Kardashian Event" is scheduled to air from 8 a.m.-noon on E! today.)

We're not saying we're perfect over here, but we would have the decency to fake it for 18 months or so. Seriously, we've committed to packs of gum for longer than 72 days.

The couple in — sure, let's call them — happier times.

IN HER WORDS

Kim's explanation to E! Online contains all the hallmark phrases of an expensive, publicist-kissed divorce statement, with the notable exception of "utmost respect": "After careful consideration, I have decided to end my marriage. I hope everyone understands this was not an easy decision. I had hoped this marriage was forever, but sometimes things don't work out as planned. We remain friends and wish each other the best."

The feed ...

We'll be stalking Queen of Snarky One-Liners @Joan_Rivers for her reaction, but until then, let's see what Kelly Osbourne, Russell Simmons, Samantha Ronson and ?uestlove had to say about this Kardashian mess:

- @UncleRush: I hope the best for my friend Kim Kardashian and wish she finds peace and happiness

3 reasons it didn't work

Why didn't it work between a career reality show star and an unemployed NBA player who stood to gain millions by wedding in front of cameras? Even we refuse to dignify that one with an answer. Instead, let's speculate as to why it ended faster than we can send back a Netflix DVD.

1. Nobody was interested in the rights to "Kim and Kris' First Thanksgiving!" photos.
2. Kris was thinking of going back to "Chris."
3. E! promised her a six-hour divorce special if she could file before sweeps.

Marriages that were shorter than Kim's

Filing for divorce after 72 days is a true gift to gossip columnists rendered almost unconscious by Halloween candy. But these stars untied the knot even faster:

Salma Hayek reunites with Antonio Banderas in the animated 'Puss in Boots' She hopes it introduces her to a whole new generation 'Or else I die,' she says

Salma Hayek knew she had one major problem coming her way after taking on a role in "Puss in Boots," given its appeal to children: explaining to her 4-year-old daughter, Valentina, that cartoon characters are actually voiced by human actors. "I was worried about that because it's like the Santa thing in a way," Hayek explains.

"I thought I had some time, but I took her to see a movie and in the previews I see 'Puss in Boots,'" the actress remembers. "I had two seconds to break it to her.

Before I could saying anything, my character came on screen and she said, 'Oh my gosh Mommy, that cat sounds just like you.' I said, 'It is me.' I had to explain to her that it's not real. It's drawings. I think she was a little upset, maybe a little confused. Now, she loves it. She's so proud of me."

In the film, Hayek voices Kitty Softpaws, both a romantic interest and professional rival for Antonio Banderas' titular feline. But Hayek didn't have a lot of time to get into character as Kitty, even if she was expecting some.

"Chris never showed me the script," she says of director Chris Miller. "I just showed up blind."

Instead of presenting concept drawings or script pages, Miller would explain the scenes and stories to Hayek, helping her conceptualize the feline-fueled adventure. "It reminded me of my grandmother, who would tell me the most amazing tales and you had to imag-

BRIDGET KELLY CLOSE UP

Jay-Z's protege is a New Yorker with a debut EP that features The-Dream and Frank Ocean ◐ She's also got a mean flair for makeup ◐ She shares some stage tips

Lip balm that won't catch flies: "I wear my hair down a lot so I'm not a fan of lip gloss," says the Roc Nation singer, who is currently working on a new album. "MAC's pink Lip Conditioner gives just a little bit of tint and looks like a gloss without the sticky shine. It's just enough moisture to look like makeup."

Beating the bad skin days: "The NARS Duo concealer in custard and ginger saves my life when I'm having a breakout," Kelly explains. "It completely covers what I need covered. And if I have a show, MAC's Studio Tech compact gives me complete coverage and a glow."

The trick to cheek contouring: "I have high cheekbones, so it's really easy for me to end up looking like a doll. For the best result I use a small brush with St. Tropez Bronzing Rocks. I try and contour the powder below my cheekbones by making a fish face and pouting my lips so I can see where my cheekbone line is. Then I just brush underneath it."

On the perfect eye: "I have long lashes, so mascara easily starts to cake and I end up with tarantula eyes. L'Oreal Voluminous mascara really separates my lashes and adds a bit of lift so I don't need eyelash curlers."

'Don't You' love being Sandra Bernhard?

- Outrageous comic comes to the Hub for four nights
- Her show may be extreme, but offstage, she is not

The name Sandra Bernhard is synonymous with outrageous.

The self-described "provocateur" has made a long, impressive career out of pushing the limits whether on stage, film or television. Probably most well-known for her groundbreaking turn as the lesbian best friend on the sitcom, "Roseanne" and her numerous wildly entertaining appearances on "Letterman," the comic/singer is bringing her latest stage show "I Love Being Me, Don't You?" to Boston this week.

The critically acclaimed show is vintage Bernhard.

"I definitely want to stir up people and make them look at things. I don't purposefully try to offend people but I do elicit some very strong reactions. If I'm pushing some button, they're hiding something."

"It kind of reflects the global, the political, the emotional, absurd, fun and sexy. It's sort of introspective, wrapped around different musical elements," she says. "I definitely want to stir up people and make them look at things. I don't purposefully try to offend people but I do elicit some very strong reactions. If I'm pushing some button, they're hiding something."

She says the show is not just for diehard fans, but those people will have an easier time adjusting.

"Die-hard fans who get me on all the levels of irony and camp are there to go on the crazy ride. Everyone else sort of tiptoes into it, not really knowing what I do. I don't think it could possibly turn anyone off. I have great compassion for everyone. I just try to say, 'Hey, look at this!' Everybody needs to be called out. I call myself out all the time."

Though Bernhard loves being the free-wheeling, in-your-face diva on stage, she's quick to point out that's not who she is offstage.

"It's a persona, she's definitely way up there in a place nobody could possibly live," she says. "I'm a pretty solid citizen. I'm not a drinker, have never been into drugs. I take my daughter to school, I'm a strict disciplinarian. I like doing laundry and washing dishes. But that's not sexy."

Have a novel November

Want to crank out a bestseller in 30 days? NaNoWriMo can help Our reporter is up to the challenge

FOX 2000 PICTURES

How's this for a novel concept? Write a novel in a month, starting today. That's exactly what a quarter of a million people will do as part of National Novel Writing Month.

NaNoWriMo began with 21 writers in the summer of 1999, and each year, the participants grew exponentially, from 5,000 in 2001 to the 250,000 reportedly registered on www.nanowrimo.org for this year. Headquartered in San Francisco, NaNoWriMo is all about "quantity not quality." In other words, they want you to write without thinking.

Sam writes a novel

SAMANTHA SWEENEY
TWITTER: @SAMWRITESANOVEL

At the end, you'll have 170 pages of material you can edit.

It's also a chance for those who have always wanted to write but constantly put it off, to be motivated by the looming Nov. 30 midnight deadline.

Since the first month in 1999, more than 140,000 novels have been written, with more than 100 of those getting published. Sara Gruen wrote the No. 1 New York Times best-seller, "Water For Elephants" as a NaNoWriMo novel. So without the NaNoWriMo site, the world might have never seen Robert Pattinson paired with Reese Witherspoon in the major motion picture adaptation.

Though donations are encouraged, there is no fee to participate in the project, and in December, visitors to the site can read the work of writers who met the minimum 50,000 word count.

The writer's process

It is possible to write a novel in one month. The question I should be asking is, is it possible for me to do it? I have an idea in my head of some of the characters, but other than that, I have absolutely no idea where this story will go. However, the idea of writing without a plan excites me. If I don't have an outline of a story, I should at least have an outline of the next four weeks:

Sam's goals

WEEK 1:

- Write at least 1,700 words or more a day to get off on the right, inspired foot.
- Concentrate on writing without thinking and get out of the habit of going over every sentence.
- Wake up early and write, as opposed to waiting until nighttime.
- Develop definite characters with solid backgrounds.

WEEK 2:

- By the beginning of Week 2, I should have already figured out my conflict and have begun to lead the characters to it.
- NaNoWriMo suggests 22,000 words by the weekend, but I'll aim for 25,000.
- Start to think about the future of the story: Where will these characters go and how should it affect their actions in this point of the novel?

www.metro.us
FOLLOW SAM'S PROGRESS ON TWITTER @SAMWRITESANOVEL

WEEK 3:

- A conflict should be developed and actions should be leading up to this point.
- Try to stay positive: It's half over, and my sleep pattern will be normal again soon!
- Main goal: Write as much as I can as the last week (and Thanksgiving!) approaches.

WEEK 4:

- One week left means my characters will most likely be at or going through the climax of the novel. The next question on my mind will be: How will this end?
- My (hopefully tiny) bit of procrastination will probably show through at the end of this week, so I'll aim for 2,000- to 5,000- word days.
- Hit 50,000 words and submit my novel to the website by midnight on Nov. 30. Get book deal, fame ensues!

Depression is gone, but how is your sex drive?

Boston Clinical Trials is currently seeking participants for a Clinical Research Study evaluating the effects of an investigational medication on sexual functioning in adults with well treated depression.

- Are you currently taking Zoloft, Paxil, or Celexa for depression?
- Are you 18 - 55 years old?

Have you been suffering from ...

- Lack of interest in sex?
- Inability to ejaculate or reach an orgasm?
- Trouble getting aroused or reduced vaginal lubrication?

If so, you may qualify to participate in this clinical research study with an investigational medication. All study related visits provided at no cost. CALL NOW (617) 202-6322 to see if you qualify!

Inside the mind of Jason Voorhees

Halloween might be over, but scaring people is a full-time job for 'Friday the 13th' villain Kane Hodder
In his memoir, the actor spills his (not others') guts

Thanks to Kane Hodder, you may never view a hockey mask as a mere sports shield. The 56-year-old actor-stuntman has made a living inspiring fright in others — he played Jason Voorhees in four "Friday the 13th" films — and in his new book, "Unmasked," he offers a peek into his world.

You look terrifying on the cover.
That's my friendly look. I was trying to be as happy as I could.
Well, if that's happy, then I don't want to see you mad.
I wouldn't recommend it.
Do you prefer being behind the scenes as a stuntman or out in front as the villain?
I do like playing a main character in a film, there's no doubt about that. If that character still has a lot of stunt work to perform that's the perfect situation.

Q&A

Are people scared to meet you?

At times. For the most part, people are excited. It's a cool deal, especially considering I went into this business to be a stuntman. I never in a million years thought I'd be in a position of signing autographs, for God's sake.

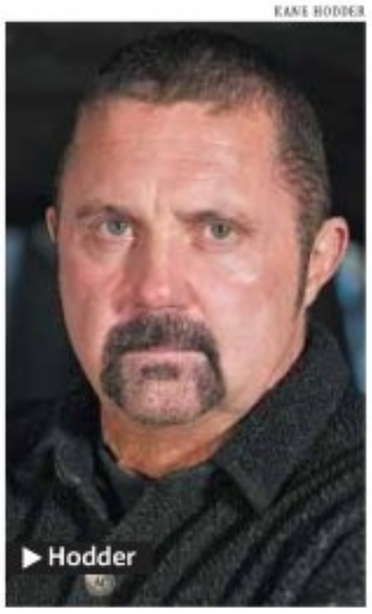
KANE HODDER



▶ Hodder

What terrifies you?
This question is so hard for me because when I give you my honest answer I sound like I'm trying to be a tough guy. There's nothing that I can come up with. I know it sounds ridiculous.
What about tarantulas?
Oh no, of course not, I love all kinds of animals. Not heights, not claustrophobic.
Public speaking?
Oh no, I do that all the time.
Flying?
I do it so much, I have no problem. I know, I'm trying so hard to come up with something.
What makes a good villain?
Believability. That was my biggest thing I always did with the Jason stuff — whatever I did I wanted it to look natural. There are so many villains I watch that look, to me, not that convincing.
Like who?
I hate to name names (laughs) but some of the other Jasons I don't think looked too convincing. One that really convinced me in the last couple years is a movie called "Red Hill." The villain is played by a guy named Tom E. Lewis. He was so convincing as that character that I think that that made the whole movie.
Did he scare you?
No. I liked his performance. (Laughs)

Occupy: Where do you stand?

RE: "SPEAKING OF GREEDY BUMS": The letters complain that OWS are freeloaders because they are demonstrating instead of working. But we need someone calling for change! The Tea Party gets much more funding from the right-wing billionaires and corporations, so they are bigger freeloaders. Plus, OWS is telling the truth about the Wall Street/GOP alliance.
HARRY THORN, VIA E-MAIL

What insight,what intelligence. I thank you for seeing right through this "mob of lazy bums." I mistakenly saw what I thought were normal everyday working people and even many from a station in life higher than yours. Thanks again for sparing me from watching FOX news and getting this same misinformation.
ED HERMAN, CHELSEA

Put the letters by Lavelle, Carrieri, Xue, and Bovinski together and you've got 202 words of childish ranting and not a single argument against why OWS exists in the first place. I hope all four were well compensated for writing such drivel.
JOSEPH CONNELL, VIA E-MAIL

I hope that Mr. Lavelle, Mr. Carrieri, and Ms. Tina Xue realize that certain people in Egypt said the same things about the demonstrations earlier this year in Cairo's Tahrir Square.
BARB MILUSKI, VIA E-MAIL

It's obvious your coverage of the Occupy Wall Street movement is very biased against the people looking out for the best of interests of the poor and middle class in this country (i.e. the 99 percent). Reading your letters in yesterday's publication, you have one pro-movement correspondence and four that are against the movement. Where is the balance? The polls show that more people support the movement than are against it, so why are you posting all these negative letters? In addition, the letters you are publishing often have the word "bum" in them. Is your paper written for elementary school kids, or is your publication targeted at educated adults? D. PERRY, VIA E-MAIL

I am nowhere near the 1 percent, which makes me part of the 99 percent, and I am 100 percent against what OWS stands for, as are many thousands of other Americans that are not mega-rich. OWS needs to adjust that 99 percent to 33 percent or 66 percent depending on which poll you believe. God bless our great nation.
REX BRYANT SR., VIA E-MAIL

E-mail your letters: letters@metro.us
Keep them as brief as possible, preferably under 100 words. Metro reserves the right to edit all letters. Please include your name and contact information.

golfing

Atlantic City golf: A sure bet

- Known best for casinos and beaches, AC certainly stacks up as a stellar golf destination
- With more than a dozen courses and lots of lodging options, build a trip to suit any group

Think "golf destination" and a few locales come to mind. Atlantic City might not be the first off your tongue, but golfers in the Northeast (and beyond) need to keep the casino destination in the mix for any future golf getaways.

Right off the bat is Atlantic City's convenience, but if the golf stinks, then what's the point? There's no problem there, as AC offers more than a dozen golf courses within a 20-minute drive in all ranges of cost and quality, offering the perfect mix for a completely customized itinerary.

The highlight of the AC region is the top-rated public golf course in New Jersey, Atlantic City Country Club, a true destination course. Built in the 1800s, a round on this seaside gem brings to mind Boardwalk Empire and the early days of Atlantic City as a vacation hot spot.

Midseason rates of $225 are at the top of the charts for New Jersey, but it's during the shoulder season that bargains abound (midweek rounds well below $100 is one of the great deals in golf). Doubling the benefit, golf courses in the Northeast are always in better shape in October and November than they are in July and August.

A charming Old World locker room adds to the experience, as does authentic Atlantic City history. The 18th hole is named for the bell once used to warn golfers that the final trolly was headed back to town (about a 15-minute drive from the casinos today).

▶ Built along the water, Atlantic City CC's design is classic, straightforward, elegant, and at times, punishing. It easily lives up to its lofty reputation and belongs on the list of any great seaside American courses.

▶ Seaview has 36 holes and the Bay Course hosts an LPGA Tour event. For more info about Atlantic City, visit www.atlanticcitynj.com.

Fun facts

- ACCC was once private before being converted into a playground for the highest of high rollers. It's now fully open to the public.
- Golf legend Arnold Palmer recently celebrated his birthday at ACCC.
- The term "birdie" was coined at ACCC.

If you go

Trop: AC hot spot

The Tropicana has emerged as a real nightlife destination of its own, thanks to the bars and restaurants of The Quarter. The Trop's premier in-house dining option, Fin, specializes in great seafood and prime oceanfront views. Feel like kicking back with a more casual scene? There's also a Hooters, an Irish pub, a sports bar and another dozen options to suit your taste.

But with 12 casino hotels to choose from, it shouldn't be hard to find a spot to fit all your needs.

Options aplenty

Need a more relaxed round after a day at ACCC? Try Harbor Pines, which rates on the "player friendly" end of the design spectrum. In pristine condition on a recent visit, just like ACCC, Harbor Pines is very playable. Ask most course architects what they strive for and they'll say, "I want it to be challenging for the good golfer, but fun for the casual golfer." At Harbor Pines, Stephen Kay accomplishes this. Wide, welcoming fairways and five sets of tees help keep the round enjoyable for all. Greens with all sorts of humps and hollows guarantee a challenge, no matter how far you can hit it off the tee, providing a nice defense for the course and keeping golfers on their toes all day long.

If you're looking to break away from the casinos, Seaview Resort might be the ticket. A full service hotel complex, this sprawling property features 36 holes and hosts an LPGA event. With more than just golf, Seaview would be ideal for a family, or a group with more than a singular interest in golf.

City breaks

▶ You can capture the beauty of Toronto without spending too much cash.

Tour Toronto like a celebrity (but on a budget)

How you can afford Canada's largest — and most glamorous! — city if you follow these tips

Find your people: For the best chance of spotting a star, be sure to explore upscale Yorkville, or the trendy Ossington strip. You just may find celebs shopping for diamonds at Royal De Versailles or primping at the Hazelton Hotel.

Upgrade your accommodations: Toronto is a town swimming with high-end hotels. Check out the Gladstone Hotel, a grand Victorian on West Queen West. While rooms here are small, each is a commissioned work of art. Playful options include the Faux Naturelle, a riff on cheeky pastorals, or the Model Citizen, sporting a peacock theme (light-up tail feathers, anyone?).

Indulge in the little things: Ogling the goods at Chanel or Cartier is a fun diversion, but not many people can afford to leave with a shopping bag in hand. Why not shop somewhere you can afford to buy? Confections at SOMA chocolatemaker are just as gorgeous as any Bloor Street bauble. The fair-trade, organic sweets here have been winning awards for their smooth and unexpected flavors like gianduja laced with Pop Rocks (don't worry, more traditional pairings exist, too).

Find nourishments at haute bar restaurants. Dining in the Ritz-Carlton's TOCA restaurant — complete with a glass cheese cave holding $1,100 wheels of Gouda — will set you back plenty. But who says you need a dinner table to do dinner? Belly up to the TOCA bar and make a meal of their Latin-inspired small plates, like pulled pork tortillas. While you eat, you can also enjoy some of the best cocktails in town. Mixologists here combine molecular gastronomy with fine spirits to concoct delicious potions; try the Minted Cucumber Collins.

Travel in style: Let the stars keep their limos — streetcars are the best way to get to know the city. Like San Francisco's cable cars, they give the city a dash of personality, and jumping on a cheery red car as it rolls downtown is a cinematic moment no visitor should miss.

Hotel hookup

If you're visiting a new city — or just want to see a different side of your own — the navigators at Renaissance Hotels want to make sure you can access all that it has to offer, on your own terms. As part of this navigation program, you fill out a questionnaire that asks your food, drink, shopping and activity preferences for a night on the town. And from there, leave it up to the experts. They'll curate a night based on your interests. No need to worry about how you'll ever get into that trendy restaurant or buzzed-about walking tour that they recommend — the hotel hooks you up with reservations and transportation. Can't make it to the hotel? Download the Renaissance's iTunes app ($4.99) to unlock hidden hot spots in your city.

Patriots secondary up to its old tricks

After solid performances, passing defense reverts to poor ◗ Belichick blames torching on adjustments coming late — and simple ineffectiveness

▶ The Patriots could do little to slow down the Steelers' attack Sunday.

Better balance coming

The Patriots offensive attack Sunday was skewed wildly toward the pass, with Tom Brady attempting 35 throws to just 12 total runs.

It was ineffective. But before you worry about seeing more of the same, know that wasn't the plan.

"A lot of plays that are in the fourth quarter, we were down by 13 points, 10 points," coach Bill Belichick said. "There's going to be more passes ... than there are going to be runs when you're in that situation." METRO

They are who we thought they were!

The Patriots secondary, that is.

After consecutive games of above-average pass defense, the much-maligned unit took another nosedive Sunday at Pittsburgh.

Let's recap the weekend's events:

On Friday, the Pats released veteran cornerback Leigh Bodden. On Saturday, they placed second-round pick Ras-I Dowling on IR. On Sunday, they gave up 365 yards through the air and 23 passing first downs, and allowed the Steelers to convert 10 of 16 third-down tries.

Yeah, about that ...

"There are things they did that obviously caused some problems," coach Bill Belichick said. "We either didn't make adjustments to it quick enough or, in some cases, we tried to adjust to it but we just couldn't get it done the way we needed to get it done."

Three of Steelers' 10 longest plays came on third-and-11 or longer, all of which were converted into first downs.

Six third-down plays ended in double-digit passing yardage for Ben Roethlisberger, and two third-down plays resulted in passing touchdowns.

"We stopped them a couple times, held them to a couple field goals, but sometimes you have to hold them to zero."
PATRICK CHUNG

"It was communication, a little bit of lack of focus on our part," safety James Ihedigbo said. "I'll put it on myself and the secondary, and Pat [Chung] I'm sure will put it on himself as well. But those are things we're going to rectify and correct.

"I mean, 10-for-16 on third down, you have to correct that in this league to win. So like I said, we'll wear it, but we'll have a chip on our shoulder this week and be ready to go."

Belichick expecting more out of Faulk

Patriots coach Bill Belichick yesterday didn't find fault with Kevin Faulk's first outing of the season.

No worries there — he was pretty solid, all told.

What's nice for Pats fans is that Belichick expects the veteran rusher to improve even more as the season goes on.

"I think he did all right," Belichick said. "I think it will be better going forward, but I think it was all right." METRO

La Russa calls it quits after one last crown

His 2,728 wins rank third all-time • He changed the way managers use bullpens • Won three World Series

Tony La Russa walked away from baseball yesterday, retiring on his own terms just days after managing the St. Louis Cardinals to the World Series title.

"I think this just feels like it's time to end it," the 67-year-old told reporters at a news conference.

La Russa, who said he made the decision to retire two months ago, spent 33 years as a big league manger, totaling 2,728 wins. That's the third-most all time (behind Hall of Famers Connie Mack and John McGraw), and the most by a skipper who didn't start his career in the 19th century.

"There's going to be a lot of names that we'll consider. We want to do our due diligence."
CARDINALS GM JOHN MOZELIAK, ON FINDING A REPLACEMENT

But he's perhaps best known for changing the way managers use their bullpens. He helped establish the role of a closer, and was among the first — and certainly the most frequent — users of right- and left-handed specialists.

La Russa played for the A's, Braves and Cubs in the 1960s and '70s, and started his managerial career with the White Sox in 1979.

He stayed in Chicago until 1986, before moving to Oakland for nine years. He won the 1989 World Series there.

La Russa came to St. Louis in 1996, and guided the Cardinals to world titles in 2006 and this year.

He's a four-time Manager of the Year. METRO

Around baseball

It was an active day around Major League Baseball.

- The Braves traded former Red Sox RHP Derek Lowe to the Indians for Class-A LHP Chris Jones. Lowe, who's scheduled to make $15 million in 2012, had a 5.05 ERA this year.
- The Red Sox declined 2012 options on RHPs Scott Atchison and Dan Wheeler, making them free agents.
- The Cubs exercised their $16 million option on Aramis Ramirez, but the 3B used his contractural right to void the deal. He forfeits his $2 million buyout, but enters a potentially lucrative FA market.

It's still Tebow Time in Denver

Despite a terrible showing Sunday, Tim Tebow is still the Broncos' starting QB.

For now.

Coach John Fox said yesterday he'll start Tebow against the Raiders this weekend, but cautioned that the former first-round pick must improve to keep his job.

"I think at the end of the day, we have to see if he can improve and get better in the passing game," Fox said.

Tebow had two turnovers returned for TDs in a 45-10 loss to the Lions on Sunday. METRO

B's back, and it's a tough one

The Bruins are back on the ice tonight, hoping to snap a three-game losing streak.

Given their opponent, they have an uphill road in front of them.

The Ottawa Senators visit the Garden at 7 p.m. (NESN, 98.5 FM). They've won six straight since opening the season 1-5.

Ottawa's last five wins have come by one goal each. METRO
